

Milestone Year in Pole

Miss Pole Dance Australia 2010

by Olivia Farag

The show opened with a video montage of previous MPDA highlights, a reminder of how this event has come a long way from its early days when it was first hosted in a tiny venue in Sydney's red-light district of Kings Cross. MPDA now attracts well over 100 entries and is showcased in the same art deco building where Rolling Stones once played.

Felix Cane was crowned Miss Pole Dance Australia 2011. It is the third time she has won the MPDA title and is the current world pole dancing champion. On what makes a winning routine Felix says "I think preparation, creativity, athleticism, good execution of moves and a performance that's enjoyable to watch. You've got to see someone really enjoying themselves and performing from the heart." Second placement went to Cleo who performed a high-energy rock-star theme inspired by her electric guitar. "I love rock n' roll and pole dancing," says Cleo. Third place was the charismatic Taylor-Grace whose Grease performance was a huge crowd pleaser

The event was proudly sponsored by Ed Hardy Energy Drink, Studio 504, The Pussycat Pole and many more. Organized by Bobbi's Studio.
